Waiting On A Woman won Saratoga's Open Trot in 1:57.4.

Dismissed at odds of 6-1, Waiting On A Woman moved his career earnings to over the $300,000 mark with his victory in the $18,000 feature. Last year's Trotter of the Year Slugfest (Jay Randall) finished second while invader Pine Credit (Marcus Miller) earned the show spot. Waiting On A Woman returned $14.60 and led an exacta that returned $51.50 and trifecta that came back $248.

After winning both of his local starts last year for his new connections, Waiting On A Woman started out his 2015 campaign with a third-place finish last week. On Sunday afternoon, the 7-year-old Margaret Spagnola trainee would not be denied, scoring a front-running win in 1:57.4 with Frank Coppola Jr. in the sulky.

Live racing resumes on Thursday afternoon with a first post time of 4:00 p.m.
