

Last call for Driving School registration

by Jessica Schroeder, USTA Outreach & Membership Enrichment Coordinator

Columbus, OH --- It is not too late to register to be a part of the 2015 USTA Driving School. The USTA is conducting the 17th annual Driving School in just over a month, May 13-16, in the Goshen, N.Y., area.

Students who attend the Driving School come from all walks of life and comfort levels with equines. The school is very much "hands-on" with a lot of great knowledge given by the instructors and lecturers.

The advanced course is for prior graduates of the school and they will have the opportunity, in addition to the regular schedule of activities, to travel (ship) to racetracks and observe the paddocking and racing of horses.

Anyone interested in attending the USTA Driving School can get full details and registration information at www.USTADrivingSchool.com.

Don't delay -- register now!
