

SRF's online auction opens on May 13

by the Standardbred Retirement Foundation

Milestone Twp, NJ --- The Standardbred Retirement Foundation's (SRF) online auction will open on Friday (May 13) at 3 p.m.

The sealed bid auction includes fabulous items such as a tour of NBC with Emmy Award winner Bruce Beck and a firsthand watch of the 6pm news live; a Premier Track Trainer from Pennsbury; veterinary services, surgery, arthroscopic surgery, and full body scan, and veterinary care at the training centers and farms; photography services; blacksmith services; a FinnTack harness; Irv and Vic Sportswear gift card; artwork; home décor; a weekend at a family dude ranch; a ride in a starting gate; watch a live race called in the announcer's booth, and much more.

A sealed bid auctions works as follows: click on an item you wish to purchase and enter the highest amount you are willing to pay. All bids/offers remain confidential so to win the item you will need to enter your highest bid/offer. The winners will be announced on Friday (May 20). All items will also be available as a sealed bid auction at SRF's Golf outing at Knob Hill Country Club in Manalapan, N.J., on May 18.

Items will be added until the auction ends, and additional donations are very much appreciated. SRF asks for support of the auction as donors have chosen to help with their generous gifts to assist the 27-year old organization. Proceeds will assist with the feed and care of 203 Standardbreds, some retired due to age or injury under SRF's expense, but all are available for adoption.

For questions or further information contact Tammy at 732-446-442, Admin@srfmail.com. The auction can easily be accessed through SRF's website at AdoptaHorse.org.
